11. Answers will vary but should include the use of vocabulary words such as assumptions, conclusions, consequences, gossiping, and rumor, and state ideas similar to the following: jumping to conclusions before you know the facts can make you assume something that is not true about somebody else; talking negatively about somebody else can hurt his or her feelings; passing on a rumor or starting one is like feeding a monster—it mutates a little and gets bigger until it's completely different from when it started; rumors usually get meaner, uglier, and more hurtful; words have consequences, and once a gossip monster has started, it's almost impossible to stop.
12. Answers will vary but should include ideas such as the following: At first it was great for Jamie to feel listened to and popular because she liked that people were interested in what she had to say, and she liked getting back at Del for being so mean to her. But realizing she had become the bully in this situation made her understand that she had hurt Del for selfish reasons. Hurting others to try to make yourself feel good is never a good choice, and you'll usually feel even worse in the long run.
